To Whom it May Concern:

I'm writing this letter to recommend the business of Andrew L. Parker with RE/MAX Mutual Realty. During a period when my family needed to find a new home due to growing needs, we found Andrew to be extremely knowledgeable, respectful of our situation and helpful in discerning what home best fit our lifestyle.

Having worked with other realtors, Andrew stands alone as our favorite. In an ever-changing housing market where decisions need to be made very quickly, it is reassuring to know a trusted friend like Andrew can help clarify the options.

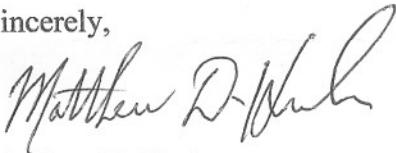

Andrew made himself very available to us. When viewing homes, he did his homework and brought other listings, research results on school systems and ideas for other neighborhoods that might interest us. He was patient with us and gave us space when we felt overwhelmed and needed to process the options.

Another aspect of Andrew's was his generosity. I don't think I can remember all the gifts he brought to us. His generosity did not stop with the sale of our home. Andrew continues to communicate with us and shares his knowledge of life in Seattle, the housing market, the outdoors and his love for music.

Andrew has become a close friend – we enjoy his unique ability to blend business and relationship into an attractive experience.

If you or someone you know is interested in real estate, do not wait any longer to invite Andrew L. Parker into the process.

Sincerely,

Matthew D. Hudson
